HER EYES WERE BLUE theless.

THE PRETTY MISS WHO WAS NOT SO SIMPLE AS SHE LOOKED.

How Nellie Scott, the Notorious Shoplifter, Was Detected and Sent to Sing Sing-A Quiet Way of Taking Thieves Into Camp Employed In a Big Store.

The scene is laid in one of New York's chat about old times." huge up town dry goods stores. It is the hour of the crush. Crowds of bargain Mr. Walker?" hunting women surge up and down the long, stifling aisles. The cry of the salespeople, the chatter of the cash girls, the noise of scuffling, hurrying feet, the hum of conversation, rising to insist upon bargains here and there-all mingle in a confused, subdued roar.

At one of the busiest counters, where are piled high rich and costly laces. holding their own against the elbowing, irritated, feverish, ceaselessly moving throng, are a pair of fashionably dressed women. Both perhaps wear diamonds, but they are not conspicuously displayed. They are quiet of demeanor. Nothing by look or action would separate them, so far as the superficial view would reveal, from hundreds of others in that eddying, clamorous mass.

Evidently one of the women is the purchaser, the other merely accompanying her. They consult over possible purchases. These completed, they give the direction to the saleslady. The price is high. They consult their pocketbooks and discover they have not sufficient change about them.

"Please to send the goods C. O. D. tomorrow. It will be abundant time." The saleswoman is pleased. She bids her agreeable customers to come again. They reply with a charming smile and got along well enough with him. are lost in the crowd. Unnoticed after them wanders a pretty, blue eyed girl. She has been standing near them, purse in hand, at the counter, rather wistfully eying their purchases, wondering no doubt if she shall have money enough some day to do as they. Her hair is golden and hangs pendent in a plait down her neck. Her eyes are big and blue, with all the innocence of a schoolgirl. A jaunty sailor hat caps a trim and attractive figure. The women from the counter move toward the door. The little girl is not far behind. If you had looked closelysomething you would have never thought of doing—you might have seen a sharp, keen eyed young man eying the girl closely. If you had been an attentive observer, you might have seen this innocent, blue eyed little girl nod er got the particulars." sharply at the two women as they pass out, then turn on her heel and go back over in Brampton, and his wife left among the crowd. Then you would have him for awhile, but she's back now.'' knows me quite well.—Wanderer. noticed that the sharp eyed young man quietly left the store with the two women. He is fashionably dressed, idly wears a cane and has doubtless been making some purchases himself. Half a block away he taps one of the women on the shoulder. "Madam," he says half roughly, but politely, "the woman at the lace counter would like to see you." The women look up with astonishment. They are quite sure they have left nothing, but the young man is urgent. He suggests that they had better not make a scene. He blandly suggests that it is doubtless all a mistake, but return they must. Otherwise-an officer stands at the corner. Seeing that there is no escape, the women return. One of them is searched in the superintendent's office. Neither Nellie Scott nor any of the rest was ever for a moment conscious of the innocent looking but watchful eyes intently laid upon them by that pretty little girl, with the sailor hat and the golden hair, bound in a schoolgirl's plait.

This is one of the many means adopted by the great dry good stores of the city to protect themselves from the plundering shoplifters which prey upon them. It is a very popular means, because it is one of the surest and most effective, and at the same time the patrons of the store are not annoyed by the palpable presence of a detective. They do not feel under any irritating espionage, and the shoplifters never know when these soft, innocent looking paws are to pounce upon them .- New York

Discouraging to Burglars.

There is little encouragement for a man to be a burglar nowadays. When he has an earnest aspiration to rise to eminence in the profession, inventive genius always does all it can to bother him. For instance, the vaults of the subtreasury in San Francisco are fitted with wires laid between every two rows of brick, so that any attempt to interfere with the cement or the bricks will disturb an electric circuit and sound a warning bell, -Boston Courier.

YELLOW CUR AND COYOTE.

Each In Turn Assumed the Aggressive

an Amusing Fight.

There were three of us in a wagon driving from Springdale, on the railroad, to Hunter's Hot Springs. We had forded the sloughs that during the season of high water in the Yellowstone cut off the approaches to the bridge, the water filling the wagon box and taking the horses almost off their feet at times in the swirl of the current. One of the dogs from the hotel joined us on terra firma-a mild faced yellow cur, with no fighting qualities. He was trotting along on the road a few rods ahead of the horses when there came loping across the open country a big coyote, making straight for him.

Away went the dog, and after him the wolf. The dog made a stand and took a nip at the wolf. Then the wolf ran, and the dog pursued, but as soon as the dog had overtaken his enemy he changed his mind about attacking him and turned back. Now the wolf gained courage and took up the chase, running the vellow cur clear up to the porch of the hotel at the springs. The party in the team got a good deal of fun out of the novel turn about hunt.

Mendenhall, the landlord, whipped up the team, and we bounced along at a tremendous pace, shouting, "Go it, wolf!" and "Go it, dog!" The landlord yelled encouragement to Stub, the dog, but Stub had no mind for a tussle with the sharp toothed, long nosed brute and was happy to gain the shelter of the hotel. The coyote trotted off across the "What things a fellow will see hills. when he hasn't his gun with him!" remarked one of the men in the wagon.

The flat marshes of Pevensey have gained half a mile since the days of Edward II, when the sea almost washed the walls of the castle that now stands high and dry inland. The same thing has happened on the Romney flats, where the ancient castle of Lympne has receded a mile or more. Such spots as these look as though the next spring tide would add their grassy meadows to the lost ground of sea bottom. But on the rocky parts of the Antrim coast we have the sea slowly working its way inland, despite the rock fortifications and stony intrenchments that look so resistless. Under the waves lie tracts of bogland well in shore, and Dunluce bears witness to the ravages that have taken place the clock as geologists count time.

The sea, ever washing and tearing at remaining in a state of semiobscuration its foundations, one day broke down a for a period of time, varying from 15 to considerable part of the castle, and sev- | 30 minutes, it again regains its former eral persons were killed by the catas- brilliancy. THE PRICE OF A WIFE.

Savages Place a Varying Value Upon Their Chosen Helpmates.

In the earliest times of purchase a woman was bartered for useful goods or for services rendered to her father. In the latter way Jacob purchased Rachel and her sister Leah. This was a Beena marriage, where a man, as in Genesis, leaves his father and his mother and cleaves unto his wife, and they become one flesh or kin-the woman's. The price of a bride in British Columbia and Vancouver island varies from £20 to £40 worth of articles. In Oregon an Indian gives for a wife horses, blankets or buffalo robes; in California, shell money or horses; in Africa, cattle.

A poor Damara will sell a daughter for one cow. A richer Kaffir expects from 3 to 30. With the Banyai, if nothing be given, her family claim her children. In Uganda, where no marriage recently existed, she may be obtained for half a dozen needles, or a coat, or a pair of shoes. An ordinary price is a box of percussion caps. In other parts a goat or a couple of buckskins will buy a girl. Passing to Asia, we find her price is sometimes 5 to 50 rubles, or at others a cartload of wood or hay. A princess may be purchased for 3,000 In Tartary a woman can be obtained rubles. for a few pounds of butter, or where a rich man gives 20 small oxen a poor man may succeed with a pig. In Fiji her equivalent is a whale's tooth or a musket. These and similar prices elsewhere are eloquent testimony to the little value a savage sets on his wife. - New York Advertiser.

$1,000 A SHOT.

Properly. One thousand dollars a shot is rather expensive shooting, but when you come to figure it out you will find that it is not quite as much in proportion as $100 a shot under certain conditions. The old smooth bore cannon, short in barrel and short in the breach, had to be trained with the greatest patience and care on the object aimed at, and if the 100 pound ball didn't land exactly where it was intended it did very little harm.

With the big pneumatic gun at Sandy Hook it is impossible to make a miss. You just touch her off at $1,000 per touch, and if the projectile drops within one-sixth of a mile of where it was intended to drop there is immediate and serious trouble and in all probability no necessity for the expenditure of another dollar on that particular target. It costs does our dynamite gun, but the execution bears no comparison. One hundred gatling guns, fired at short intervals for shooting would not be one-tenth as ef-structor, free. All of which is guar-fective as the shooting of the Sandy anteed to do you good and cost you Hook terror.—New York Mail and Ex-nothing. At Humphrey's Drugstore

He was all that's brave and manly. He had emulated Stanley and had traversed wilds where white man ne'er had set his foot before. He inst gloried in a battle, for he loved to hear the rattle of the bullets and the sounding of the cannon's deadly roar. He would fight a hundred people. He would climb the highest steeple, though he knew by that rash act he was courting certain death. He would face a raging tiger, he would swim the turbid Niger, and he'd walk up to a cannon's mouth and never bate his breath.

There was nothing that could scare him. He ventured in the harem of the wildest, fiercest pasha that e'er lived on Turkey's coast. In a graveyard he had wandered late at night, and there had pondered if it would be his fortune just to see a real ghost. He was brave beyond all question. Port Louis, Mauritius.

From the sea Port Louis has a picturesque and oriental aspect, but the streets are less so than one imagines. They are wide and resemble those of Cape Town. Numerous European shops also line their fronts.

Lying behind the town is the Champ de Mars. It is used as a place of amusement, and opening into it are the streets of Burbon and Corderie, while to the left of the quays is the bazaar or market place. It is surrounded by an iron railing, has several gates leading to the principal streets and is divided into two equal parts by Farquar street.

A broad avenue also traverses its entire length, lined on either side by covered sheds, where the wares are exposed. Fruit stalls occupy the upper end, and here is exhibited a marvelous variety, a collection that would make the fruit sellers of the west mad with envy. Plantains in great yellow heaps are side by side with custard apples, alligator pears, mangoes, pineapples and others too numerous to mention. Mangoes are the most esteemed by Europeans. The lower market contains the butchers' shops, where fowl, fish and kid are conspicuous.-All the Year Round.

Attention is Called to the Following:

The law declares that "Each Person" charged with taxes on the Tax Duplicate in the hands of the County Treasurer may pay the full amount of such taxes on or before the 20th day of December and the remaining half thereof on or before the 20th day of June next ensuing; but all road taxes shall be paid prior to the 20th day of December. If the first half of the tax charged a ainst real estate is not paid by the 20th of December next, a penalty of 15 per cent. will be charged on the December installment, and the same penalty will be charged on the June installment of tax if not paid by the 20th of June next,

If the half taxes charged on personal property are not paid by the 20th of December next, the whole amount becomes due and must be paid by the 20th of June next or a penalty of 10 per cent. Will be charged and must be collected by distress or otherwise. Legal means will be used to collect all delinquent personal taxes if necessary, and the Tax Payer can claim no exemptions whatever.

All persons having failed to pay their taxes due in June, 1894, will see that they are paid beforathe 20th day of December next or they will be advertised as delinquent and offered for sale on the third Tuesday of January next, thereby saving trouble and expense. Tax-payers are requested to bring their last year's receipts and prepare themselves with change. Remember that early payments will relieve you from the crowd of the last weeks.

Road receipts are received at the collection of December taxes only. There will positively be no receipts laid in the drawer, so do not ask meand you will not be refused.

Tax-payers will carefully examine their receipts and see that they are paying on all their property. When asking by letter for the amount of your taxes designate your property clearly, state in whose name, in what it wnship and section, and number of acres or number of lot; in whose addition and what town, also whether real estate or personal property.
